MEMORANDUM ORDER

This matter comes before this Court on Defendants' Motion for Reconsideration of this Court's June 3, 2025 Order for Defendants to produce a list of library books currently under review within the Department of Defense. Dkt. 41. First, Defendants contend that the preliminary injunction posture constrains the Court's review to only the necessary factual record, rather than any additional facts "neither party has identified to be necessary to resolving the pending motion." Dkt. 42 at 4-6. Second, Defendants assert that the deliberative process privilege shields disclosure of the list because it is both pre-decisional and deliberative. Id. at 7-12. Plaintiffs opposed Defendants' motion. Dkt. 44. To aid its review of the motion, the Court granted Defendants' request to file the list of removed books ex parte for the Court's in camera review. Having considered the parties' submissions and reviewed the list in camera, the Court finds that privilege does not shield disclosure of Defendants' list of books. Furthermore, the Court finds that the list is appropriately part of the factual record for the motion for preliminary injunction. Accordingly, the Court will deny Defendants' Motion for Reconsideration.

Background

Plaintiffs are twelve students of military families at five Department of Defense Education Activity ("DoDEA") schools who bring First Amendment claims against Defendants DoDEA, Dr. Beth Schiavano-Narvaez, Director of DoDEA, and Peter Brian Hegseth, Secretary of Defense, in connection with their changes to curricular material and removal of library books at DoDEA schools. Dkt. 1 ("Compl.") ¶¶ 4, 10-15. Plaintiffs allege that Defendants' actions—done in implementation of various Presidential Executive Orders allegedly targeting gender ideology, "discriminatory equity ideology," and anti-American sentiments in the federal government—violate their Free Speech rights. Id. ¶¶ 51, 83-101. On May 7, 2025, Plaintiffs filed a motion for preliminary injunction seeking to enjoin "Defendants from enforcing Executive Order Nos. 14168, 14185, and 14190 and related memoranda, directives, and guidance in DoDEA schools." Dkt. 10 at 25. The motion further requests the Court to order the Government to "return[] all books and curriculum already quarantined or removed based on potential violation of the Executive Orders to their preexisting shelves, classrooms, and instructional units." Id. at 26. The parties completed briefing on the matter. See Dkts. 10, 29, 36.

On June 3, 2025, this Court held a hearing on the motion for preliminary injunction. In both their briefing and at the hearing, Plaintiffs have repeatedly stated that they have requested the list of books removed from DoDEA libraries to no avail and instead have "compiled the current reported list of books removed . . . through their own observation." Dkt. 10 at 8; see also Dkt. 47 ("Tr.") at 7:24-8:1, 14:12-13, 16:19-25. Consequently, the Court ordered that Defendants submit information available regarding the centralized list of removed books to the Court and to Plaintiffs. Tr. at 32:17-33:3. On June 6, 2025, Defendants moved for a six-day extension to produce the list of library books, which the Court subsequently granted. Dkts. 38, 40. On June 11, 2025, Defendants filed the instant Motion for Reconsideration. Dkt. 41. Defendants proposed that, in the alternative, the Court could conduct an in camera review of the list ex parte to adjudicate the privilege issues or "stay its order to produce the list until the motion for reconsideration has been resolved." Dkt. 42 at 12. On June 16, 2025, the Court issued an order permitting Defendants to produce the list of books ex parte for in camera review. Dkt. 45. Defendants filed the list ex parte that same day.

Legal Standard

While Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 59(e) and 60(b) govern motions for reconsideration of final judgments, Rule 54(b) applies to reconsideration of interlocutory orders. Fayetteville Invs. v. Comm. Builders, Inc., 936 F.2d 1462, 1469-70 (4th Cir. 1991); Nicholas v. Wyndham Intern., Inc., 373 F.3d 537, 541 (4th Cir. 2004) ("Discovery orders are 'inherently interlocutory." (quoting McCook Metals LLC v. Alcoa, Inc., 249 F.3d 330, 335 (4th Cir. 2001))). "Motions for reconsideration of interlocutory orders are not subject to the strict standards applicable to motions for reconsideration of a final judgment." Am. Canoe Ass'n v. Murphy Farms, Inc., 326 F.3d 505, 514 (4th Cir. 2003). Rather, a district court retains discretion to "reconsider and modify its interlocutory judgments... at any time prior to final judgment." Id. at 514-15; see also Fayetteville Invs., 936 F.2d at 1469.

To guide their discretion over Rule 54(b) motions, courts in the Fourth Circuit look to the legal framework for Rule 59 and Rule 60 motions for reconsideration. Am. Canoe Ass'n, 326 F.3d at 515; Orbcomm Inc. v. Calamp Corp., 215 F. Supp. 3d 499, 503 (E.D. Va. 2016) (relying on the standards of Rule 59 and 60 even though "the Fourth Circuit has declined to 'thoroughly express [its] views on the interplay of Rules 60, 59 and 54." (quoting Am. Canoe Ass'n, 326 F.3d at 515)). Therefore, even with Rule 54(b) motions for reconsideration, courts generally "do not depart from a previous ruling unless '(1) a subsequent trial produces substantially different evidence, (2) controlling authority has since made a contrary decision of law applicable to the issue, or (3) the prior decision was clearly erroneous and would work manifest injustice." Orbcomm Inc., 215 F. Supp. 3d at 503 (quoting Am. Canoe Ass'n, 326 F.3d at 515). Generally, "[a]bsent a significant change in the law or the facts," a court will grant a motion for reconsideration only where it "has patently misunderstood a party," "made a decision outside the adversarial issues presented to the Court by the parties, or has made an error not of reasoning but of apprehension." Evans v. Trinity Indus., Inc., 148 F. Supp. 3d 542, 544 (E.D. Va. 2015) (quoting United States v. Smithfield Foods, Inc., 969 F. Supp. 975, 977 (E.D. Va. 1997)).

Discussion

Defendants contend that reconsideration of the Court's Order for the list of removed books is warranted for two reasons. Dkt. 42 at 1. First, Defendants assert that "this Court cannot enlarge the factual record" to consider the list of books at the preliminary injunction phase. Id. at 4. Second, Defendants invoke the deliberative process privilege over the list of books, which they claim is pre-decisional and deliberative and therefore protected from disclosure. Id. at 6. The Court takes up the privilege issue first and finds that the deliberative process privilege does not apply to the list of books. Furthermore, the Court finds that the list is properly part of the factual record for preliminary injunction.

A. Deliberative Process Privilege

The deliberative process privilege "protects from disclosure documents generated during an agency's deliberations about a policy, as opposed to documents that embody or explain a policy that the agency adopts." U.S. Fish & Wildlife Serv. v. Sierra Club, Inc., 592 U.S. 261, 263 (2021). The privilege arises from the common law and covers "recommendations, draft documents, proposals, suggestions, and other subjective documents which reflect the personal opinions of the writer rather than the policy of the agency." 2 City of Va. Beach v. U.S. Dep't. of Com., 995 F.2d 1247, 1253 (4th Cir. 1993) (quoting Coastal States Gas Corp. v. Dep't. of Energy, 617 F.2d 854, 866 (D.C. Cir. 1980)). It "rests on the notion that 'officials will not communicate candidly among themselves if each remark is a potential item of discovery and front page news, and its object is to enhance "the quality of agency decisions" by protecting open and frank discussion among those who make them within the Government." Harrison v. Shanahan, No. 1:18-cv-641, 2019 WL 2216474, at *4 (E.D. Va. 2019) (quoting Dep't of the Interior v. Klamath Water Users Protective Ass'n, 532 U.S. 1, 8-9 (2001)).

Information protected by the deliberative process privilege must be "predecisonal and deliberative in nature." Id. at *4. To determine whether information is the agency's "settled position, courts must consider whether the agency treats the document as its final view on the matter." Sierra Club, 592 U.S. at 268. A document reflects an agency's "settled position" when privilege.").

² While the privilege is often discussed in the context of Exemption 5 of the Freedom of Information Act ("FOIA"), Exemption 5 is rooted in the common law privilege. Sierra Club, 592 U.S. at 263 ("Exemption 5 incorporates the privileges available to Government agencies in civil litigation, such as the deliberative process privilege, attorney-client privilege, and attorney work-product privilege."); In re Sealed Case, 121 F.3d 729, 737 (D.C. Cir. 1997) (stating that the deliberative process exemption in FOIA "originated as a common law privilege."); Est. of LeRoux v. Montgomery Cnty., 2024 WL 1703939, at *3 (D. Md. Apr. 19, 2024) ("When a case is in federal court based on federal question jurisdiction, federal common law governs assertions of executive

"the deliberative 'process by which governmental decisions and policies are formulated' will have concluded, and the document will have 'real operative effect.'" Id. (quoting NLRB v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., 421 U.S. 132, 150, 160 (1975)). Furthermore, whether a document is "deliberative" rests on whether "disclosure of the materials would expose an agency's decision-making process in such a way as to discourage candid discussion within the agency and, thereby, undermine the agency's ability to perform its functions." Harrison, 2019 WL 2216474, at *6 n.14 (quoting Moye, O'Brien, O'Rourke, Hogan & Pickert v. Nat'l R.R. Passenger Corp., 376 F.3d 1270, 1278 (11th Cir. 2004)). The Fourth Circuit has deemed documents to be deliberative when they "reflect[] the give-and-take of the consultative process." City of Va. Beach, 995 F.2d at 1253 (quoting Coastal States, 617 F.2d at 866); see also Jones v. Murphy, 256 F.R.D. 510, 518 (D. Md. 2008), aff'd, 2009 WL 604937 (D. Md. Feb. 23, 2009) ("The Fourth Circuit has adopted the give-and-take test to determine whether documents are deliberative; thus, the deliberative-process privilege protects conversational documents—those intended to fuel a dialogue[.]").

Once the privilege applies, it is not absolute. Courts may compel disclosure of "predecisional and deliberative" documents in limited circumstances. Harrison, 2019 WL 2216474, at *4. The privilege "does not shield statements about a policy after the policy has been finalized, and it 'does not protect purely factual information, unless it is inextricably intertwined with deliberative material." Id. (quoting Stone v. Trump, 356 F. Supp. 3d 505, 514 (D. Md. 2018)). Moreover, "[w]hen a party . . . seeks agency materials, the validity of the privilege 'depends . . . upon a balancing of the public interest in nondisclosure with the need for the information as evidence." Id. (alteration in original) (quoting Cipollone v. Liggett Grp. Inc., 1987 WL 36515, at *2 (4th Cir. Feb. 13, 1987) (per curiam)). The Court considers several factors: "(1) the relevance of the evidence to the lawsuit; (2) the availability of alternative evidence on the same matters; (3) the government's role (if any) in the litigation; and (4) 'the extent to which disclosure would hinder frank and independent discussion regarding contemplated policies and decisions." Cipollone, 1987 WL 36515, at *2 (quoting FTC v. Warner Commc'ns, Inc., 742 F.2d 1156, 1161 (9th Cir. 1984)). The party asserting the privilege bears the burden of proof and must articulate "specific facts" as opposed to a "conclusory assertion of privilege." Harrison, 2019 WL 2216474, at *5 (first quoting RLI Ins. Co. v. Conseco, Inc., 477 F. Supp. 2d 741, 751 (E.D. Va. 2007); and then quoting Bethune-Hill v. Va. State Bd. of Elections, 114 F. Supp. 3d 323, 344 (E.D. Va. 2015)).

The document submitted to the Court for in camera review reveals several issues with Defendants' assertion of privilege. First, Defendants contend that the list is pre-decisional because no final decision on which books will be permanently removed has been made. Dkt. 42 at 7. Because the list "leaves agency decisionmakers free to change their minds," Defendants argue that it cannot "reflect the agency's final decision." Id. (quoting Sierra Club, 592 U.S. at 269). Furthermore, Defendants find dispositive that the final decisionmaker on this matter, Timothy D. Dill, had not seen any iteration of this list or any recommendations from his staff prior to this disclosure to "let alone make any final determinations of disposition." Id. at 7-8. Second, Defendants argue that the list is deliberative because it is "comprised of 'opinions that [are] subject to change." Id. at 10 (alteration in original) (quoting Sierra Club, 592 U.S. at 269). Defendants describe an "iterative" and "dynamic" process whereby stakeholders at all levels of DoDEA continue to develop the list and make recommendations for Mr. Dill's final decision. Id. at 10-11. Per Defendants, "the release of the document at this pre-decisional stage will have a chilling effect" on the stakeholders' candor with recommendations. Id. at 11. Conversely, Plaintiffs aver that the deliberative process privilege does not apply here because the document in question concerns factual information, about "events that have already happened," in a case where "the plaintiff's cause of action is directed at the government's intent." Dkt. 44 at 2-3.

The Court agrees with Plaintiffs that the deliberative process privilege does not apply in the first instance. First, the submitted list of books does not include anything remotely deliberative. "One of the rudimentary black letter rules is that while the privilege covers 'opinions' it does not cover 'facts." Cipollone, 1987 WL 36515, at *2. Here, the list is purely factual because it comprises a spreadsheet of over 500 book titles and authors with no stated opinions. Through the submitted list, the Court cannot find any indicia of "the manner in which the agency evaluates possible alternative policies or outcomes," a reflection of "the personal opinions of the writer," or the agency "give-and-take"—all relevant factors in determining the "deliberative" nature of a document. City of Va. Beach, 995 F.2d at 1253; see also Reps. Comm. for Freedom of the Press v. FBI, 3 F.4th 350, 366 (D.C. Cir. 2021) (stating a document is deliberative when it "call[s] for judgment or the candid exchange of ideas."). The Fourth Circuit made clear in Cipollone that the privilege protects, in part, "against confusing the issues and misleading the public by dissemination of documents suggesting reasons and rationales for a course of action which were not in fact the ultimate reasons for the agency's action." Cipollone, 1987 WL 36515, at *1 (quoting Coastal States, 617 F.2d at 866). No such concern exists with the submitted list of books. Rather, the Court finds that the submitted list is squarely the type of "purely factual material" that falls outside of the deliberative process privilege. EPA v. Mink, 410 U.S. 73, 88 (1973).

Second, while the Court acknowledges that the submitted list may not be the final decision of Mr. Dill, it finds dispositive that the list has nevertheless already had a "real operative effect." Sierra Club, 592 U.S. at 268. As Mr. Dill's declaration acknowledges, the submitted list reflects "[t]he list of books removed from the shelves." Dkt. 42, Ex. 1 ("Second Dill Decl.") ¶ 4. Thus, the list is of legal consequence. See Sierra Club, 592 U.S. at 271 (stating that a "decision's 'real operative effect' as an indication of its finality . . . [refers] . . . to the legal, not practical, consequences that flow from an agency's action."). That the list is "iterative" does not mitigate the fact that it reflects an implemented action. Indeed, courts have routinely distinguished between drafts of documents that reflect an "agency's ongoing internal work to settle on a substantive policy approach" from "documents that would simply describe an already-adopted policy." Reps. Comm. for Freedom of the Press, 3 F.4th at 363; see also Cipollone, 1987 WL 36515, at *1 (stating the privilege "protect[s] against premature disclosure of proposed policies before they have been finally formulated or adopted.") (emphasis added) (alteration in original) (quoting Coastal States, 617 F.2d at 866). That the Government stamped "pre-decisional" on the document is also not dispositive. "[D]etermining whether an agency's position is final for purposes of the deliberative process privilege is a functional rather than formal inquiry." Sierra Club, 592 U.S. at 272–73.

Third, courts have established that the deliberative process privilege "does not apply where 'the plaintiff's cause of action is directed at the government's intent." Est. of LeRoux, 2024 WL 1703939, at *4 (quoting In re Subpoena Duces Tecum Served on Off. of Comptroller of Currency, 145 F.3d 1422, 1424 (D.C. Cir.)); Bethune-Hill, 114 F. Supp. 3d at 339 ("Unlike other cases, where the deliberative process privilege . . . may be employed to 'prevent [the government's] decision-making process from being swept up unnecessarily into the public domain,' this is a case where the decisionmaking process 'is the case.'" (quoting Comm. for a Fair & Balanced Map v. Ill. State Bd. of Elections, 2011 WL 4837508, at *8 (N.D. Ill. Oct. 12, 2011))); see also Jones v. City of Coll. Park, 237 F.R.D. 517, 521 (N.D. Ga. 2006) ("[T]he privilege is simply inapplicable, because government intent is at the heart of the issue in this case."); United States v. Lake Cnty. Bd. of Comm'rs, 233 F.R.D. 523, 527 (N.D. Ind. 2005) ("[T]he deliberative process privilege does not apply when the government's intent is at issue."). The deliberative process privilege was "fashioned in cases where the governmental decisionmaking process is collateral to the plaintiff's suit. In re Subpoena Duces Tecum Served on Off. of Comptroller of Currency, 145 F.3d at 1424. Here, the heart of Plaintiffs' suit challenges the Government's underlying intent in removing books from DoDEA libraries. Accordingly, where Plaintiffs' "cause of action is directed at the government's intent . . . it makes no sense to permit the government to use the privilege as a shield." Id. For all of these reasons, the Court finds that the deliberative process privilege does not apply to Defendants' submitted list of removed books.

Even if the privilege applied, the Cipollone factors would heavily weigh in favor of disclosure. The list of removed books comprises critical evidence to Plaintiffs' allegations of First Amendment violations. In fact, Plaintiffs have attempted several times to access the list of removed books with no success, illustrating that no viable alternative means for acquiring such evidence exists. See Dkt. 10 at 8; Tr. at 7:24-8:1, 14:12-13, 16:19-25. Furthermore, "[t]he government is no stranger to this litigation; rather, all of the named defendants are governmental officers or agencies, and plaintiffs' claims go directly to the constitutionality and legality of those agencies' policies." Harrison, 2019 WL 2216474, at *8. Finally, the Court does not find that "disclosure would hinder frank and independent discussion regarding contemplated policies and decisions" so as to outweigh disclosure. Cipollone, 1987 WL 36515, at *2 ("While the last factor obviously requires a consideration of the policies underlying the privilege, it does so expressly in the context of weighing the public interest in nondisclosure of the particular materials at issue.") (alteration in original). Therefore, the material is not privileged and must be publicly disclosed, and the Court finds no basis for reconsideration.

B. Factual Record in the Preliminary Injunction Phase

Defendants' second basis for reconsideration posits that the Court may not "enlarge the factual record beyond what the parties have concluded is necessary for resolution of the motion" at the preliminary injunction phase. Dkt. 42 at 4. As a preliminary matter, Defendants do not cite a single source of authority barring the Court from ordering the submission of additional evidence to resolve a motion for preliminary injunction. Nor have the parties stipulated to a factual record that excludes the list of removed books. Rather, Plaintiffs have repeatedly sought to make this list of removed books part of the factual record but had limited access to it prior to this Court's Order. See Dkt. 44 at 1; see also Dkt. 10-23 ("Keeley Decl.") ¶ 24-26, 33-34; Dkt. 10-24 ("Henninger Decl.") ¶ 18; Dkt. 10-25 ("Young Decl.") ¶ 12; Dkt. 10-26 ("Kenkel Decl.") ¶ 20.

More importantly, the Court finds that list of removed books is necessary to resolve the preliminary injunction. Here, the Court is persuaded by Plaintiffs' argument that "the fact that the list is expanding so rapidly" speaks to the ongoing nature of the alleged First Amendment harms. Dkt. 44 at 2; see Second Dill Decl. ¶ 4 (stating "[b]ooks continue to be added for a number of reasons[.]"). Defendants even contend that "the Court's universe of consideration is limited to non-privileged factual matters and legal issues that are germane to resolve whether Plaintiffs are entitled to emergency relief." Dkt. 42 at 5 (emphasis added). It would be absurd to deem the list of removed books as not germane to a suit about alleged First Amendment harms from removing said books. Accordingly, the Court finds that the list of books is appropriately part of the factual record for preliminary injunction.

Conclusion

For the reasons set forth in this Memorandum Order, it is hereby

ORDERED that Defendants' Motion for Reconsideration (Dkt. 41) is DENIED; and it is further ORDERED that the list of books (as submitted to the Court) is deemed filed on the public docket and included as Attachment A to this Memorandum Order.
