Re: MPIA response

In response to your MPIA request, I forwarded your request to Corrective Solutions who is responding to some of your requests. I will respond to the balance using the number of the request.

2. I have attached a disk of correspondence with Corrective Solution.

11. See attached National Prosecution Standard

12. I have attached 2 papers on private prosecutors. I would also note that the Federal and state governments allow for private prosecution with direct financial pay out in the areas of civil rights enforcement, equal opportunity enforcement, environmental law enforcement and other areas. I point out that police use private companies to run red light and speed camera enforcement and that courts use private companies to supervise probation conditions, such as; mental health or substance abuse or domestic violence or child abuse counseling, installation and monitoring of ignition interlock systems, GPS monitoring systems.

Before we began using a company we were handling an average of 20 bad check cases a week which resulted in increased costs to the merchants to send employees as witnesses, costs to the defendants for attorneys, court costs, fines, probation supervision and the ancillary costs of having a bad check charge on your record, even if you got a probation before judgment. I wanted to have an in-house diversion program which would have done exactly what the private company does but did not have the resources.

13. Ho Pak and Lisa Leone Pak v. Minh-Vu Hoang, 378 Md. 315; 835 A.2d 1185; 2003 court order of fees to be paid to private administrator.

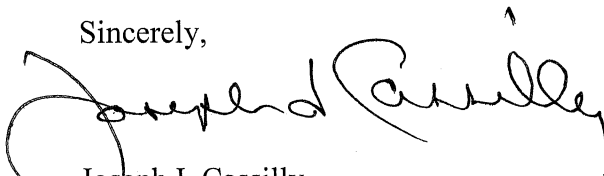

14. See 11, 12 and 13

18. See attached report

19. We do not have that information.

Additional requests for records will be billed at 25 cents per page or $5 for disk.

Sincerely,
