Title: INFRAGARD

Synopsis: To document a presentation given by SA Shelagh Sayers at Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh.

Details: On Monday, February 27, 2006 SA Sayers presented on Cyber Crime in Japan and the United States: A Case for International Cooperation to an audience of 115 people at Carnegie Mellon University. The presentation was part of a series put on by CyLab and the Computer Emergency Response Team (CERT) in conjunction with the Japan America Society and the Mansfield Foundation.

It should be noted that SA Sayers did a radio interview on the topics covered during her speech. SA Sayers was told of the radio interview minutes before her presentation. The interview took place immediately after the presentation, leaving no time to request approval. However, it lasted for five minutes and consisted solely of information SA Sayers had discussed in her presentation.
