Title: COMMUNITY OUTREACH PROGRAM;
SUMMARY OF ANNUAL REPORT
(01/01/04 - 12/31/04)

Synopsis: To provide a summarization of the CJIS Division COP activities for the reporting period.

Details: The Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Division Community Outreach Program (COP) creates and provides educational programs targeted to promote crime, drug, gang, and violence prevention within North Central West Virginia to meet the growing needs of the local communities. The COP is committed to working with school systems and community organizations to promote healthy lifestyles and provide an environment that supports positive alternative activities to drug use, gangs, and violence. The priority of the CJIS Division COP is the Partners for Citizenship and Education Program (PCE).

The CJIS Division COP continued to serve five schools in the North Central West Virginia community as Partners for Citizenship and Education during the reporting period. Two of the schools were provided the Junior Special Agent Program. Character Education, Lunch Bunch, Bully Prevention, Internet Safety, Stranger Danger, Caring Officers Promoting Safety, The Right Choice, Community Fingerprinting, Red Ribbon Week, and Fed Facts. The Real Deal program was offered and presented at all of the CJIS Division partner schools as well as other requesting schools in the community.

The CJIS Division continues building and maintaining the partnership between the FBI and the American Football Coaches Association (AFCA) and their outreach initiative known as the National Child Identification Program. The goal of this partnership is to ensure the safety of America's children by making fingerprint kits available throughout the nation for child identification purposes.

During 2004, the CJIS Division COP participated in many community and private sector initiatives such as the Hooked on Fishing Not on Drugs program, school and county educational fairs, speaker's bureau, organizational memberships, and the Director's Community Leadership Award.

The CJIS Division has maintained partnerships and networked with state and local agencies and government officials in order to strengthen existing programs for all partners involved.
