Beautifully said, [REDACTED]

Yes – my 'personal envelope' was the sure and certain belief I'm the real [REDACTED] Christmas Movie - "you'll shoot your eye out, kid!" My bigger fear was that it wouldn't be MY eye! It was very fine to have a chance to get 'unafraid' of guns and to learn I wasn't half bad. I couldn't have gotten there without the great support from everyone! I can't remember when I've laughed as much as I did through many days of the class from everyone's wonderful sense of the humor – that way of coping that underlies the gravity of it all. It was emotionally wrenching at times – the Yosemite murders – and exhilarating at others, but always, always impressive and informative. I've had the pleasure of working with some of the agents on the Sacramento Task Force on Hate Crimes, but I've never really known what all they did when we weren't sitting through meetings. It was deeply impressive. Thanks to everyone. It was quite an experience!
