Charlie Winter

Charlie researches jihadist movements in Syria and Iraq. Recently, he translated from Arabic and analysed a 10,000 word manifesto from Islamic State's Al-Khanssaa Brigade. Besides this, he has translated a number of other jihadist documents and authored two long reports on jihadist organisations - one on Islamic State's rise and recent history, the other on jihadist propaganda strategy. He is currently working on two book chapters that will be published in the autumn.

He has advised governments on Middle East policy and presented his findings at UK Parliament on a number of occasions. He is also a contributing member of the US-based counter-terrorism group, TRAC (Terrorism Research and Analysis Consortium).
