All – now that we are back at full capacity after the holidays, I wanted to share some more insight to these deliverables and provide some further background. Also, we are still working to get in synch with our NCTC colleagues to ensure that we are in synch and provide a proper and comprehensive response.

One thing to make clear is that we are not re-creating the wheel in regards to developing new divergent efforts that conflict with the foundation of work and progress that we have all accomplished under the SIP. However we are determining how best to strategically reinvigorate efforts and take them to the next level of implementation with the focus on how we can directly support frontline law enforcement and community efforts to prevent violent attacks and counter violent extremism.

The Interagency Policy Committee agreed that:

- 1) Departments and Agencies will meet to collectively agree upon an analytic intelligence assessment framework to guide the i
