Jason,

We would like a little more time to provide more detailed feedback, but as you are asking for general, preliminary reactions, the FBI believes that this is a good start and fairly sketches out the options we have so far discussed. We would add the following global comments:

Thanks for all of your work on this.

FBI and BJA, any general (and preliminary) reactions to this would be much appreciated. The Associate AG is actually not here tomorrow and I'd like to give him an update today. Also, if we can get the papers from BJA and FBI today that would be great, or if that's going to take longer please let me know so I can factor that into the timeline, etc.

Thanks all.

Jason

All:

As promised at our meeting on Monday, attached is a summary of the key options from our discussion. I'd like to get some general feedback quickly as to whether these are the right options. Also, if we can get the papers from FBI and BJA that we discussed that would be very helpful. Once we've been able to digest the different options and we circulate the papers and any comments, I think we should have another meeting to see if we can come to some resolution about the recommended path forward. I had the sense from our last discussion that we might not be far apart within DOJ in terms of a viable solution.

Jason
