Jason -- thanks. I will try to read tonight. Let's continue work as you suggest. We should let Heidi know where we are, but it sounds like we won't be sending to her for another week or so. If that's not right, let me know.

Thanks,

Tom

Tom,

I know you're leaving and that you were looking for an update as to where things stand. I think we have a good working draft that combines what Helaine did last week with a more detailed options summary from our meeting earlier this week. A copy is attached, though it's a work in progress that Helaine and Nancy haven't had a chance to review since I put in various edits.

I think we are making progress here even from where things were left last week:
