To all:

Hope this email finds you well and you're planning for a pleasant holiday season. I just wanted to provide you with the current status of the shared spaces and the availability of data from the different sites. Things have continued to move forward at a constant pace and we have leaped over several hurdles. Here is the status report:

1. We welcome Los Angeles and Houston to the available access sites through the NSI Search Tool. There are now 8 sites available in the search tool:

- Florida (FDLE)
- Virginia
- New York
- Chicago
- Boston
- Miami Dade
- Los Angeles
- Houston

The final 3 sites; (Washington State, Arizona, and Washington DC) are continuing to move forward and access in on the horizon.

Did I miss anything? Assuming you're OK with this, I anticipated forwarding these notes to the team. I don't perceive anything as sensitive... Let me know.

M
