Confidential Human Sources

- “Any person with access and/or information that is of value to the FBI and/or the United States Government .”
- “The intelligence Expert”

Issues/Why We Can't Fail

- No longer using a single source of information
- Better communication and/or coordination between components
- Blindly following orders vs. managing up as well as down and laterally
- Info collection & reporting without providing analysis
- Failure to recognize dangers or criticality (i.e. Ft. Hood shootings), Threats are not always clear or recognized as present.

Four Fundamental Questions

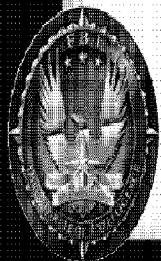

- What Do You Know?

- What Do You Need To Know?

- What Don't You Know?

- What Are You Going To Do About It?

b7E

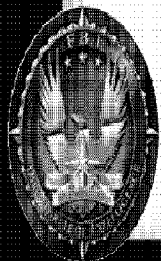

What Do You Know Already?

- Your Confidential Human Source Coordinators (CHSCs), Agents and CHS will be involved in baseline collection and this intelligence will may be forwarded to you (SOS) for processing and further analysis of current, potential and historical by reviewing information from:

What Framework Do You Use?

- Baseline CHS Collection (both for your FBI Division overall and for your cases) Is guided by the following:

b7E

What Don't You Know?

- Analyze the Intelligence Based on:

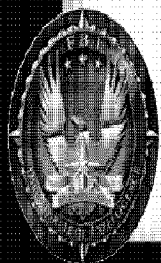

b7E

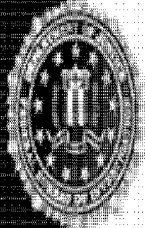

- Existing CHS
- Potential CHS
- Liaison Contacts

b7E

- The Division DMC will determine threats, vulnerabilities, and intelligence gaps that are not covered

What Don't You Know?

- Your

b7E

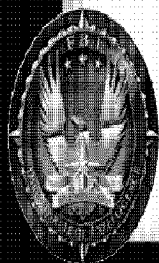

- Some activities will be covered, to a degree, by ongoing investigations

- Other activities, to a degree, will be covered by CHS coverage and liaison contacts

b7E

- Those activities that remain uncovered or partially covered are knowledge gaps and potential vulnerabilities

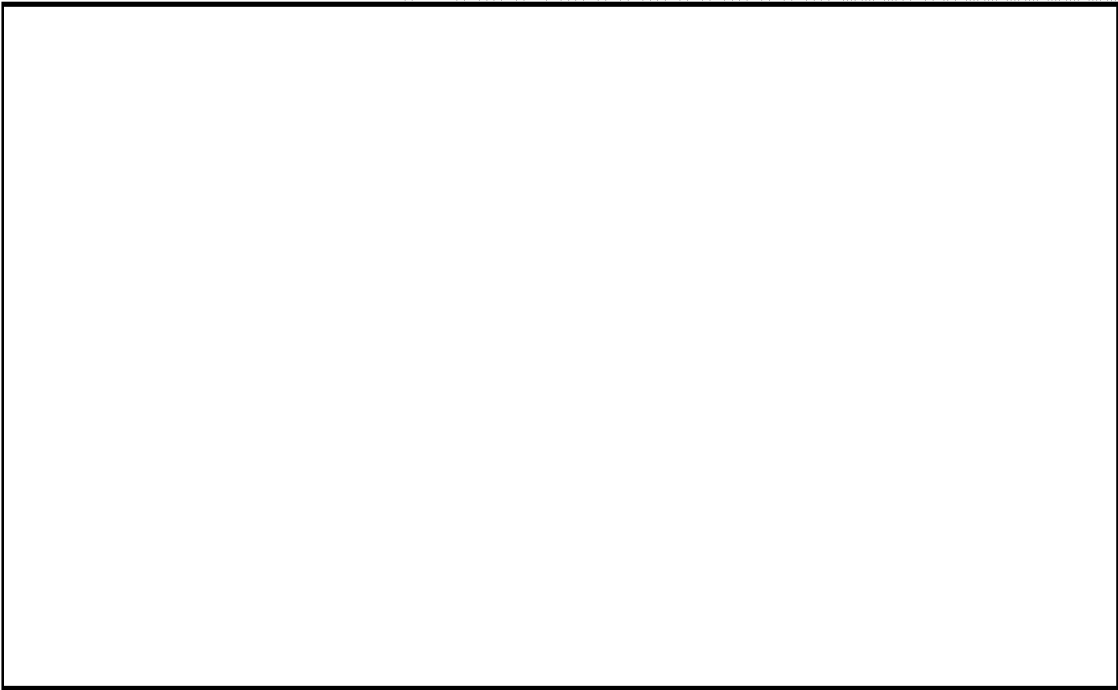

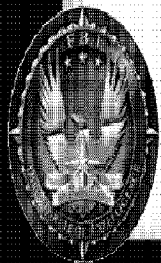

What Are You Going To Do About It?

- The FBI Division will

➤ Prioritize the threats and vulnerabilities

- SOS “may” be authorized by their FBI Division
if they clearly have “Need-to-Know”, and are doing full time analytical research.
