

From: CICC
To: (b) (6)
Subject: Criminal Intelligence Coordinating Council's Five in 5 - Summary of Criminal Intelligence-Related News for February 20, 2015
Date: Friday, February 20, 2015 3:30:24 PM

Is this e-mail not displaying correctly? View it in your browser.

The Criminal Intelligence Coordinating Council's (CICC) Five in 5 is a snapshot of law enforcement and criminal intelligence-related articles, resources, and research that may be of interest to CICC members and partners working to improve the nation's ability to develop and share criminal intelligence.

The CICC's mission—to advocate for and support state, local, and tribal law enforcement and homeland security agencies and personnel in their efforts to develop and share criminal intelligence for the promotion of public safety and the security of our nation—is important, contemporary, and essential. Five in 5 is provided for your information and awareness as an effort to assist the criminal intelligence community in understanding trends, training, and activities that may impact law enforcement and criminal intelligence. You are encouraged to share this e-mail with your association members, colleagues, department/organization personnel, and others, as appropriate.

Crime Analysis Training

Free Crime Analysis Workshop March 25–26, 2015

On March 25–26, 2015, the Bureau of Justice Assistance and the International Association of Directors of Law Enforcement Standards and Training will present “Building Analytical Capacity: A Workshop for Law Enforcement Executives.” This free training will be held at Wayne County Community College in Taylor, Michigan and the intensive two-day workshop is designed to support chiefs, sheriffs, and other police executives in the development, utilization, and enhancement of crime and public safety analysis intended to drive departmental operations. To register, provide agency name, contact information, and number of attendees to IADLEST at Yvonne@iadlest.org or (208) 288-5491.

For more information, visit <https://www.bja.gov/Events/IADLEST-CrimeAnalysisWS.pdf>.

Federal Budget

Department of Justice FY 2016 Budget Request

President Obama’s FY 2016 budget proposal totals $28.7 billion for the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ) to support federal law enforcement priorities and the criminal justice priorities of DOJ’s state, local, and tribal law enforcement partners. The proposed budget represents a comprehensive investment in DOJ’s mission and includes increases in funding for countering violent extremism and other national security areas; civil rights and advancing equality under the law; Smart on Crime activities, including increased funds for prisoner reentry initiatives; and other key enforcement initiatives.

For more information, please visit <http://www.justice.gov/opa/pr/departments-justice-fy-2016-budget-request>.

Cyber Information Sharing

President Obama Expands Info Sharing With Executive Order

On February 13, 2015, President Barack Obama signed an executive order to further encourage the sharing of cyberthreat information between the U.S. Department of Homeland Security and the private sector. The executive order is the most recent initiative by the administration to foster a clearer view among corporations and federal agencies of malicious cyberthreats that officials say have intensified in recent months.

This article is available at <http://fcw.com/articles/2015/02/13/obama-cyber.aspx>.

Countering Violent Extremism

Obama Announces Initiatives to Curb Recruitment of Terrorist Groups

In his keynote speech at the White House Summit on Countering Violent Extremism, President Obama spoke on the need to strike a balance between addressing the risk of the radicalization of disaffected youths and the need to reassure Muslim Americans that their communities are not being targeted as a source of terrorist plots. The President outlined a multipronged approach to countering the pull of terrorist groups, highlighting the perspectives of moderate Muslims, and addressing the economic and political grievances disaffected youths may have. This approach also includes bolstering the resources of local communities so that they can compete with the savvy social media campaigns the Islamic State and al Qaeda are waging.

This article can be viewed at http://www.washingtonpost.com/politics/obama-announces-initiatives-to-curb-recruitment-of-terrorist-groups/2015/02/18/bc4800ca-b792-11e4-9423-f3d0a1ec335c_story.html?tid=hpModule_f8335a3c-868c-11e2-9d71-

Information Security

ICAM Summit Final Report Announcement

In October 2014, state, local, and federal justice and public safety leaders participated in an Identity, Credential, and Access Management (ICAM) National Strategy Summit to discuss how to improve critical information sharing from the wide variety of systems technology to make the best possible decisions and protect first responders and the public. The summit focused primarily on the development of an ICAM strategy for the First Responder Network Authority (FirstNet). The final report recommends principles and actions for developing an ICAM strategy that can register, verify, and authorize network users.

This blogpost is available at <http://www.ise.gov/blog/chief-harlin-r-mcewen/icam-summit-final-report-announcement>.

Subscribe

Forward

Unsubscribe

(b) (6)

To submit an article for the CICC's Five in 5, please e-mail CICC staff at cicc@iir.com.

From: CICC
To: (b) (6)
Subject: Criminal Intelligence Coordinating Council's Five in 5 - Summary of Criminal Intelligence-Related News for May 29, 2015.
Date: Friday, May 29, 2015 2:01:36 PM

Is this e-mail not displaying correctly? View it in your browser.

The Criminal Intelligence Coordinating Council's (CICC) Five in 5 is a snapshot of law enforcement and criminal intelligence-related articles, resources, and research that may be of interest to CICC members and partners working to improve the nation's ability to develop and share criminal intelligence.

The CICC's mission—to advocate for and support state, local, and tribal law enforcement and homeland security agencies and personnel in their efforts to develop and share criminal intelligence for the promotion of public safety and the security of our nation—is important, contemporary, and essential. Five in 5 is provided for your information and awareness as an effort to assist the criminal intelligence community in understanding trends, training, and activities that may impact law enforcement and criminal intelligence. You are encouraged to share this e-mail with your association members, colleagues, department/organization personnel, and others, as appropriate.

Cyber Center

IACP Launches the Law Enforcement Cyber Center

On May 18, 2015, the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP) launched the Law Enforcement Cyber Center, <http://www.iacpcybercenter.org>. The center is an online portal that is designed to educate and build the capacity of justice and public safety agencies to prevent, investigate, prosecute, and respond to cyberthreats and cybercrimes. The center is designed to address three principal areas: cybercrime investigation, digital forensics, and information systems security.

This article is available at <http://www.theiacp.org/ViewResult?SearchID=2567>.

Gun Violence

Governor Cuomo Announces $13.3 Million to Fight Gun Violence Across New York State

New York Governor Andrew M. Cuomo recently announced that law enforcement agencies in 17 counties participating in the state's Gun Involved Violence Elimination (GIVE) initiative will receive $13.3 million to target gun violence and save lives. The initiative requires the use of proven strategies to reduce shootings and firearm-related homicides in communities served by 20 police departments in those counties. "Through the GIVE initiative, [this administration is] giving law enforcement agencies more resources necessary to fight gun violence in our streets in order to save lives and make communities across this state safer."

This article is available at <http://www.poststarnews.com/article/20150526/NEWS/150529793>.

Terrorism Prevention

"There's No Predictor:" Activists Hope to Stop Terror Attacks

Before They Happen

Predicting the next terrorist attack and who will be behind it is complicated, but a national program with deep roots in the city of Los Angeles is at the forefront of trying to find a way to stop acts of terror before they happen. The Los Angeles Police Department (LAPD) pioneered Countering Violent Extremism (CVE), the relationship-building program, several years back. This program designed to fight terror encourages communities to drive the conversation of how and when to intervene. "It's about building trust and teaching communities about how to access government," LAPD Deputy Chief Mike Downing said. "You cannot blend intelligence and CVE work together."

This article is available at <http://www.nbclausangeles.com/news/local/Community-Activism-Terror-Act-Prevention-CVE-CREATE-304778091.html>.

Opioid Overdose

Decrease in Rate of Opioid Analgesic Overdose Deaths—Staten Island, New York City, 2011–2013

From 2000 to 2011, the rate of unintentional drug poisoning (overdose) deaths involving opioid analgesics increased 435 percent in Staten Island. In response, the New York City Department of Health and Mental Hygiene implemented a comprehensive five-part public health strategy, including (1) citywide opioid prescribing guidelines, (2) a data brief for local media highlighting Staten Island mortality and prescribing data, (3) Staten Island town hall meetings, (4) a Staten Island campaign to promote prescribing guidelines, and (5) citywide airing of public service announcements. Concurrently, the New York State legislature enacted the Internet System for Tracking Over-Prescribing (I-STOP), a law requiring prescribers to review the state prescription monitoring system before prescribing controlled substances. Between 2011 and 2013, there was a 29 percent decline in the opioid analgesic-involved overdose death rate in Staten Island..

This article is available at [http://www.cdc.gov/mmwr/preview/mmwrhtml/mm6418a3.htm?
s_cid=mm6418a3_w](http://www.cdc.gov/mmwr/preview/mmwrhtml/mm6418a3.htm?s_cid=mm6418a3_w).

Fusion Centers

Transformation of the DHS/DOJ Fusion Process Technical Assistance Program

The Department of Homeland Security/Department of Justice Fusion Process Technical Assistance (TA) Program (TA Program) and fusion centers nationwide are undergoing an exciting stage in their evolution. With the maturation of the National Network of Fusion Centers, the TA Program is evolving to meet the expanding needs of fusion centers. This growth will require a TA Program that is capable of working with both fusion centers and their key stakeholders to address expectations and facilitate understanding of the benefits and value of increased partnerships.

The blog post is available at <http://www.ise.gov/blog/ise-bloggers/transformation-dhs-doj-fusion-process-technical-assistance-program>.

Subscribe

Forward

Unsubscribe

(b) (6)

To submit an article for the CICC's Five in 5, please e-mail CICC staff at cicc@iir.com.