COSs,

As Christian and I both mentioned at this morning's meeting, the Secretary would like principles to participate in community engagement events as he has done in Chicago and Columbus and will do again soon in Minneapolis and Los Angeles. The regular roundtables convened by Office for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties will be available as options. The note below and attachment explain this further. I&A has also suggested that their Building Communities of Trust (BCOT) events held with state and local fusion centers may also be an option. Here is a link to information about BCOT: <http://www.dhs.gov/sites/default/files/publications/cve-as/building-communities-of-trust-fact-sheet.pdf>.

I will send a tracker next week for you to note whether we have signed up your principle yet.

Thanks,

David

Dear CTAB members,

As discussed at yesterday's CTAB, the Secretary would like you all to participate in community engagement events that will further our countering violent extremism (CVE) efforts. Your options include the regular roundtables convened by Office for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties, the Community Awareness Briefings and Community Resilience Exercises hosted by CRCL and NCTC, or a special event aligned with your mission. The attached document lists some of these options. To facilitate your selection and participation, CRCL and your CVE Working Group representatives will work with your staffs directly. Please pass along this notification to your schedulers to ensure they are aware of this request.

Let us know if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Megan H. Mack
Officer for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties
U.S. Department of Homeland Security
