Subject: eGuardian Update

Regarding the eGuardian meeting, I can provide more details verbally, but after [REDACTED] walked the FBI team through the details of how the Shared space components actually work, [REDACTED] admitted that he clearly misunderstood the project. Then we gave [REDACTED] several technical options to consider - he could pick what was best for him. After the meeting, we had a working lunch with the programmer responsible for the eGuardian ingest routine. We cleared up a lot of his confusion. I think next week, a Telecom may suffice instead of a meeting. Going forward we agreed to install the FBI server at IJIS but leave it there until we completed all testing with high confidence. Then send it to FBI security. So we may be operationally ready by May 1st but in a IJIS environment. WE also agreed to send the FBI more detailed SARs. [REDACTED] hopes to be ready to do that by Thursday

I agree with David but this does raise the issue about what the fire fighter can share back with his/her home office. Lets keep that out of the SAR mix for now.
On the E Guardian front I think it went well. I left [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] at 12:30 to go to the PM meeting but they where going to lunch with the E Guardian team and I think things are ok. We set a goal of next week to exchange the information from E Guardian to the SS for the ELT ? development. Everyone agreed on May 1 as the operational date for the FBI SS. The push from the SS to EG has a couple of wrinkles but [REDACTED] did not seem to think they where a problem.
I assume that [REDACTED] will bring you up to date on the nuts and bolts.
[REDACTED] came in at the end and he and I talked . he seems distracted but ok.

They can get accounts on RISS and LEO as long as they are serving in that capacity at the FC. This would be the same if they were a civilian analyst. Of course I would defer to [REDACTED] should he see it differently.

Again when looking at the access to SAR, if they are serving in a LE capacity (as an analyst to the FC) they should get access based on the approval of the FC Director. Also the FC Director would be responsible for that person and that individual could not access the SAR search for their agency and provide info only when conducting business on behalf of the FC.

Please see [REDACTED] question below – I am not entirely sure of the question regarding the SAR access- I have asked [REDACTED] to give me an answer to the RISS question – it seems to me that we have billed the system as law enforcement only for the EE – will this present concerns with other sites if we add fire or others. I remember [REDACTED] concern over the access to the system and his request that we keep it very limited. Comments? Thanks [REDACTED]

Subject: SAR Training/RISS/LEO Access

[REDACTED] in our SAR Analyst training today in Las Vegas, a question came up about someone who is a member of the fire service who is assigned to fusion center performing a law enforcement function. The questions were:

Can these folks get accounts on RISS or LEO?

Will they be given access to the SAR Shared Space as a law enforcement member?
