Thanks, Nick!

We also entirely, categorically will reiterate that NO state was prepared for this (nor the federal government)--and that's what we've done in a lot of our other press, as well. This has been unprecedented. We 100% know y'all are doing the best you can and are here to support and assist in reiterating the narrative that this is not a fault--this is a full-scale attack on the US/state UI/PUA systems.

Thanks,

Thanks Melanni. We will move forward with the interview and keep you updated on how it goes. We will let Blake know not to proactively mention OED.

We've had media interviews in the past in states where we were still in the contract process, and when asked about it Blake has responded with "X agency is aware of our services and offerings." Is this response OK if Blake is explicitly asked about OED? Want to make sure we discuss this before heading into the interview.

Thanks,

Nick

Hi there,

So sorry for the delay -- and thank you for reaching out! That reporter has reached out to us for comment on that same story, asking about levels of preparedness, etc. I appreciate the offer to not mention us -- let's stick to that for now.

For reference, our messaging is pretty high-level, reiterating that no states were prepared for the surge of claims, and everything that came with it.

Please let me know if you have any questions. Thank you!

Hi Melanni-

Looping in Nick from our team--is there anything we can provide you all? We're not under contract with you all (yet) but it is in process so I just wanted to let you know--we will NOT mention anything about OED, if that is preferred.

Thank you,

Hi OED Team,

I know we're still in contract and do not have anything signed yet, but wanted to bring the following to your attention after our discussion about press, yesterday.

ID.me has been in a lot of news stories recently (NY Times, LA Times, CNBC, MSNBC, etc), so a lot of local entities have been reaching out. We just had a reporter from ABC 2/KATU in Portland, Keaton Thomas, reach out--they are working on a story related to unemployment fraud and have seen ID.me referenced in a few articles. He specifically asked: "Is there someone with your company I could talk to about the threats states are facing when it comes to fraudulent unemployment claims and whether or not states were prepared for the level of fraud we've seen since the pandemic?"

He's running the story on Monday regardless, but I wanted to bring this to your attention as it does not mention OED and we would not mention the relationship, but we wanted to touch base with you prior. I don't know who leads the comms/Public Affairs team but wanted to pass this along!

Thank you,
