Narrative: The Palm Bay Police Dept's dispatch center received a 911 call through a cell phone where a subject on the phone indicated that a bomb had been placed at the rear of the River's Edge school. The caller sounded similar to several of the dispatch personnel, in which other phone calls were made through out the last three weeks. The caller's voice was consistent with a young white male who was making an attempt to disguise his voice, by lowering the tone and drawing out the pronunciation. The caller's voice choice was a theatrical animation consistent with a horror movie character. The caller's time on the phone was not quick and to the point, but rather longer where he spent time making grunting sounds and moans. The caller announced the bomb would go off at 2pm. Cpl Hensel initially responded and made contact with the school's administrator, Mary Karnetsky. The discussion took place where the decision was made to evacuate the schools students at 1:25pm. The students were escorted to the adjacent commercial property. The school building and yard were searched without result.

LOCATION: Broadview Dr NE
VICTIM: Palm Bay Police Department
SUSPECT: [REDACTED]
REPORTING: Detective M. J. Pusatere

On February 28, 2007, I was assigned to investigate a series of open cases involving bomb threats and false 911 calls originating from a deactivated cell phone. The phone numbers that showed up the caller ID in dispatch most frequently was 911-765-[REDACTED]. The other numbers associated with this caller were 911-767-[REDACTED] and 321-482-[REDACTED].

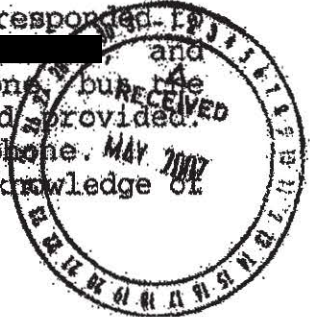

I contacted the FBI crime laboratory to see if there could be any analyses if I had the suspects in the case provide a sample. I was informed by one of the lab technicians that in order for them to do a comparison the sample must be recorded through the same media (model cell phone) that the calls were being made on. Also if there was any attempt to disguise the voice on the part of the caller would provide an inaccurate reading. Also in order for them to even look at the evidence, the case would need to be for a felony and adopted by a local FBI field office with a request for the use of the lab sent to Washington. The criteria were too restrictive to be of any use for this case.

I also submitted a complaint with Cingular security to find out past subscriber information based on the false 911 calls. Cingular eventually advised the phone was a Trac-phone, and that company would need to be subpoenaed for any subscriber and toll information. I did send a subpoena to Trac-phone.

In the meantime, I contacted Harris Corporation and utilized some of their technology and engineers to track the cell call. We were unable to pinpoint exactly the trailer that the calls were coming from while we were set up, but the track was consistent with both [REDACTED] (the [REDACTED] s) and [REDACTED] (the [REDACTED] s). Based on previous searches that had been conducted and information provided by the [REDACTED] and other neighbors, my investigation focused on [REDACTED].

On March 19, 2007, I received information from Cingular wireless that the cell phone that was used to make the calls was a Motorola C139 with an IMEI number of [REDACTED].

On March 26, 2007, dispatch had received more calls. I responded to [REDACTED] and interviewed [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] produced a Motorola C139 phone, but the serial number did not match the number that Cingular had provided. Neither Ms. [REDACTED] nor Ms. [REDACTED] produced a Motorola C139 phone. I interviewed Ms. [REDACTED] separately, and she denied any knowledge of [REDACTED].

who was making the calls. Ms. [redacted] was showing signs of being deceptive based on her body language and speech patterns, but she did not provide any useful information.

On April 1, 2007, [redacted] and [redacted] moved out of the state of Florida, and [redacted] moved to either Cocoa or Titusville. On April 2, 2007, Titusville P. D. checked out with Ms. [redacted] car, which had her two dogs locked in it with the window rolled up. There have not been any further calls to Palm Bay P. D. dispatch since April 1, 2007.

On April 2, 2007, I received the information back from Trac-phone. I cross referenced the toll calls and found one unlisted number. The other numbers were for local schools (Turner Elementary - bomb threat on 10/12/2006 DR 06-011276; Palm Bay Elementary; River's Edge Charter Academy) Brevard County Code Enforcement, the [redacted]'s residence, and an unlisted BellSouth landline. I subpoenaed the subscriber information for that number (321-637-[redacted]) and discovered that it belonged to the 18th Judicial Circuit. I called that number and the person at that number did not know any of the suspects.

There are no further leads in this case and all associated cases (06-011045, 06-011276, 06-011705, 06-011280, 06-012077, can be closed.
